AREA DESCRIPTION

Moreno Valley is a dynamic community located half-way between Los Angeles and Palm Springs with a population near 190,000. As part of Riverside County and the 3rd largest city in the Inland Empire, Moreno Valley has become the ideal location for many expanding businesses with its booming economy and rapidly growing population. Moreno Valley is home to March Field, which provides the longest airport runway in California and serves as the West Coast distribution hub for worldwide shipping giant DHL. With competitively-priced housing and average household incomes in the market that exceed $68,000, Moreno Valley residents' average discretionary income allows for substantial purchasing power.
